Dress Ethics

The consciousness of being well dressed heightens your self-respect and increases your self-confidence. An inquiry was sent by a psychologist to a large group of people, asking about the impression clothes made on them. It was unanimously testified that when they were well groomed and faultlessly attired, the knowledge and the feeling of it, brought them increased faith in themselves; heightened their self-respect. They declared that when they had the look of success they found it easier to think success, to achieve success. Such is the effect of clothes on wearer himself.

What effect do you have on an audience? If you groom yourself in a baggy trousers, shapeless coat, dust laden shoes, fountain pen and pencils peeping out of your breast pocket, a newspaper striking out of your sides and a greasy hat over your head – an audience will have little respect for you, as you have for himself. Such disharmony in personal appearance looms up like Pike's Peak from the plains.

How impressive is your wardrobe?

Some Do's

- Concentrate on quality
- Your work clothes must be comfortable and be suited to your job
- Choose colors which enhance your skin tone
- Wear fabrics which go with the weather
- Want to be in vogue? Visit designer shops to know what's the in-thing.

- The colors of the shirts with trousers or tops with skirts should be in harmony with each other
- Pick up a style which suits you
- Well tailored clothes make a world of difference
- Purchase clothes which go well with your body structure
- Arrange the clothes in your wardrobe systematically

Some Don'ts

- Don't just buy something because it's a bargain
- Avoid new trends as most of them have a three-month life-span
- Don't wear a readymade outfit without alteration
- Don't end up piling your wardrobe with favorite colors
- Don't buy a lot of outfits at the same time and from the same place
- Don't be too impressed by fashion shows as the clothes displayed there may not suit your lifestyle
- Never wear apparels meant for social dos at your workplace, not even when you are fed up with them
- Avoid running after popular labels
- Don't be fooled by a smart salesperson while making a purchase
- Avoid power dressing.

How to Look After your Clothes

All good things need to be maintained and taken care of. Even the best quality garment suffers early fatigue if not looked after.
