Introduction

I supposed that I wouldn't be at all amazed if someone were to approach me for dating advice. Nowadays, dating isn't as simple as it was back then.

Unless if you're that shy or has been living in a cave your whole life, you would at least have a few heartbreaks and rejections of your own.

Well, even if you are shy, I'm confident that you've at least seen a decent amount of couples going through their own set of issues and disappointments during their relationship.

You've probably had friends, who would discuss their love life with you, or those who would tell you how much they've liked a particular person only to never ask them out on a date, or that they were rejected by the person they liked.

Maybe you wanted to read this book because you're a good friend who wanted to help them with their problems, or maybe because you're having the exact same problems as they might have. It doesn't particularly matter what your reasons are.

What matters is that you're reading this book in order to find the answers that you're looking for.

Luckily, this book can be read by both males and females. You're free to skip around and to read whichever part of the book you'd like.

Keep in mind that this book isn't an instruction manual. I can't guarantee that whatever information that I pour out to you will be 100% accurate.

This book is a type of book that is written to give advice and knowledge to those who desire it.

Also, this book only helps you on getting the man or woman that you desire. It does not include anything about how to maintain your relationship.

That's more of an upgrade from this book. Even so, some of these tips will be useful for the next stage in your relationship so you won't have to worry so much.

Nevertheless, there is one issue that I would like to address to both parties before I start. It's about the big issue between men and women.

As you know, the divorce rate in society is increasingly high in the present world.

There are many personal reasons as to why this happens but that also means that having an affair with the person you're married to is also a factor.

I've know a fair share of people who have had that exact problem so you can't particularly deny that you've never seen it happen once in your life before. Either party can play a role in that dilemma so the finger can point anywhere.

Though, people do have their reasons as to why they would decide to have an affair in the first place so it's not entirely anyone's fault.

Maybe the marriage was too soon, or that the spark between the couple was able to last a few years after marriage.

Different reasons for different people, which is why this book will help you lower those possibilities. When you date someone you like, you'll want to be able to picture a future with them. That's perfectly acceptable and normal. It'll all depend on how well the both of you will match together.

Sure, you'll have obstacles to face during the relationship, but keep in mind that your partner wouldn't want to leave you unless if they decided to. Yet, they've decided to stay with you because they wanted to.

The hardest part of being in a relationship with someone is to be able to enter the relationship with that person.

After you're together, your relationship should flow and you'll instinctively know how to make it flow, which is why this book will help you chose a partner that you'll be able to stay together with for years to come.

Women

I'll start off with women simply because there's not much to say about men.

For a woman, it's rather difficult to find a man that she would like to be with, especially when she is past the age of thirty.

Sadly, it's more difficult for an older woman to find a man because they might not have the opportunity to score a date with them or that they might be rejected after the second date.

Either way, the goal is to score the second date. The reason why I say this is because the first date is when your partner is starting to get to know you.

The first date is the most important date because it allows your partner to decide on whether or not he wants to continue on to the second date.

If you're able to score a second date after the first date then you know that you're doing something right.

However, the fact that you are reading this book means that there's something that you're doing wrong during your first date that stops you from being able to score a second date.

Now many of you would probably deny that there was some sort of mistake that you've made during the date, but that's because you don't realize it. The fact that you don't realize your mistake is the biggest mistake of them all.

That's because you're doing something wrong without knowing that you're doing something wrong so you'll continue to do that wrong thing that you have been doing.

Thus, you'll be running into the same problem over and over again until you're able to realize what your mistake was.

The best solution to this issue is to start being conscience of what you're doing. Of course, that doesn't mean that you should over think when you're on a date.

The point of a date is to have fun with the man that you're with while learning more about who he is in the process.

What I'm saying is for you to think about what you did during your date with him, but that's only if he does not call you back for a second date.

By the way, don't even bother to wait for a man's answer for what you did wrong.

Chances are, he won't tell you anything and he'll most likely ignore your question. Why?

Simply because most men are either too polite or too scared to tell you a negative aspect about yourself.

That's because he doesn't completely know you and he'll be afraid that he might end up offending you in some way.

Don't bother trying to ask him to tell you either because he might just give you an excuse to get you off his back.

I can only guarantee you that the best method into attracting the man that you want is for you to start self-improving yourself.

Many people know exactly what they are doing wrong, but they won't admit that they are in the wrong.

Instead, they'll cover up their mistakes in the dating game with something along the lines of "He should accept me for who I am," or "It's not my fault that he can't accept me."

It's normal to make mistakes and it's easy to ignore those mistakes, but it's hard to change for the better.

If you're planning on having a real life-long relationship with just anyone then the first thing that you're going to have to learn is to be able to change yourself. Just like how you have to put effort into making friends, you have to put effort into shaping yourself up for the man that you like.

There might be another reason as to why you're having a hard time scoring the second date with your man.

This is the big question for you: where did you learn your dating skills?

I wouldn't be amazed if your answer was during your high school years or middle school for the early birds. Either way, how did it go?

Try to look back and think about how your past relationships went? What was the reason for your break up?

Basic questions like these will keep your conscience working. Then, apply it to your present dates.

Did any of your old dating habits match up with your current ones? I'm guessing yes.
